THE BERKELEY SPRINGS.

These Springs are situated in a high and healthy mountain district and have for the past hundred years been visited by thousands of people in search of health and pleasure. The water is used for both drinking and bathing, and when used as a bath at its natural temperature—75 degrees Fahrenheit—it makes a most delightful bath. Baths can also be furnished at a higher or lower degree of temperature, or Turkish baths to suit the wishes of the parties taking them.

Dr. C. W. Chancellor of Baltimore, in writing of the Springs, says as follows: "The glory of Berkeley is its baths, which in point of temperature and volume of water are simply superb. A health giving luxury fit for the gods."

As a cure for rheumatism these waters are unsurpassed by any in the world.

Dr. Chancellor further says: "Assertion of itself is very easy and not always redeemed by subsequent experience, but in my case, as well as that of many other sufferers from gout and rheumatism, personal experience affords no mean or narrow basis for forming a very high opinion of the healing powers of the Berkeley waters."

THE BERKELEY SPRINGS

These Springs are widely known as a most healthful, charming and popular summer resort. Since in the days of General Washington, who with Lord Fairfax established these springs and baths as a summer resort, both had cottages here and spent their summers at these famous springs, they have been recently greatly improved and there is now a fine park of several acres, with large brick bathing houses containing two large and elegant bathing pools floored in marble (one for ladies and the other for gentlemen), also a large number of private single baths for both ladies and gentlemen, in which the water can be made any desired degree of temperature; and also where the water is heated by steam (and not boiled) thereby preserving the natural medicinal properties of the waters—natural temperature 75 degrees Fahrenheit. It has been found if not a specific, at least most beneficial for many diseases. No case of rheumatism, whether simple or complicated with gout or sciatica has ever been known to have used this water properly without having been benefited. Cases of this disease have been brought to these baths as cripples and have gone away perfectly restored. Dyspepsia in its varied forms, gout, nervous weakness, diseases peculiar to females, and neuralgia are relieved in a most marked degree by these baths. It has been famous as a restorer of feeble and rachitic children when suffering from summer disease or whilst teething. It is a most marvelous cosmetic and beautifier of the skin and complexion ever known, removing tan and freckles and imparting to the skin that softness, freshness and elasticity peculiar to health. Its temperature, purity and feeling gives it a charm which is unrivaled.
