*“I love thy Church, O God!
Her walls before thee stand,
Dear as the apple of thine eye,
And graven on thy hand”*

PREFACE.

Huntington is a city of between ten and twelve thousand inhabitants. The town was laid out and the first house was built in the year 1871. From ten to twelve thousand people in eighteen years, while it may not look large to a western man who has become accustomed to this sort of growth, is a pretty good showing for the slow-going South.

Because of this rapid development, few of the people have been here for a sufficient length of time to become acquainted with a very great number of others. Fifty per cent of the people are strangers. The author of this Manual recently made the statement in a prayer meeting talk, that "one half the members of the Methodist church were strangers to the other half."

This is a condition of things which should not remain true any longer than it will take to remedy it. This Manual is issued for the purpose of obviating, in a measure at least, this difficulty. It gives the names and residences of every member of the church, so that all can see and know them. It also gives, in as full a form as could possibly be inserted in so small a book, the history of the church from its organization. It also furnishes information regarding the different departments of church work, and the various organizations connected with the church.

It is sincerely hoped that all those into whose hands this Manual comes, will be inspired by the information which it furnishes and by the prosperity to which it bears testimony to greater love for the church of their choice, and to greater interest in church work. There is a place somewhere for you. Seek it, and find it, and fill it.

Brief History of the Church.

Hon. William A. Wheeler when Vice President of the United States, sent a check for a thousand dollars to Chaplain McCabe, to aid in building Methodist churches on the Western frontier. Along with the money he sent a message, which was in substance as follows, "You Methodists go before, and clear out the underbrush, and open up the way, and then we Presbyterians will follow, and take advantage of your work."

The Methodist Church in this country, has been a PIONEER church. It has rarely been second in forming an organization in any locality. It has followed the emigrant to his Western home, and when neighborhoods have been formed, it has held services in the cabin and "dug-out" until a building could be erected. When a town or city has been laid out, the ubiquitous Methodist preacher has usually been among the first to appear on the survey to look after the building of a church.

True to its history, the Methodist Episcopal Church was the first of the churches to enter the city of Huntington, and effect an organization

In February 1872, only a few months after the town was laid out, a little company of Methodists met in Mr. A. B. Palmer's carpenter shop, on 3rd Avenue, where the sash and door factory is now located, and formed a class, which became the nucleus of the present society.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

The members of this first class were, A. B. Palmer, Thos. Medford, B. P. Driggs, Bro. Lawder and Bro. Dunham. Bro. Lawder was appointed as the first class leader. A Sunday School was organized immediately, and A. B. Palmer elected Superintendent, which place he filled for a number of years with great success.

At the conference held in the Spring of 1872, Rev. J. A. Kibbe was appointed the first pastor, and regular preaching services were begun. The first sermon was preached in the shop, to a small but deeply interested congregation. The house was warmed by a cooking stove, and Bro. Palmer's dinner table served the preacher for a pulpit; and t also often served him bountifully in another capacity.

Shortly after the coming of Bro. Kibbe, the place of meeting was changed from the shop to Burdick's Hall; after a time, from there to Gibson's Hall; and still later to Ingham's Hall; and from there into the present church building. All the time the town was growing, and the membership was increasing.

The present church building was completed and moved into Jan. 24th, 1875. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Rev. W. M. Mullenix, then pastor of the church at Charleston. Rev. W. C. Griffith, now a member of the Baltimore Conference, was pastor at the time the church was built, who, with R. Shore and A. B. Palmer constituted the building committee.

The lot on which the church was built was wisely selected on the corner of 4th ave. and 10th street, and bought of the Central Land Company, A copy of the title to the lot, together with the names of those who subscribed to purchase it, is still in possession of Mr. K. Delabar.

The church was built in the center of the lot, leaving room on the corner facing 4th Avenue for a new church, which we hope to build soon, and room on the opposite corner, facing, 10th street, for a parsonage. The parsonage, a neat, comfortable and commodious home, was built in 1882.

This Society has a threefold object. First, Social; Second, To co-operate with the pastor in church work; Third, To look after strangers.

During the past year, besides other work, it has repapered the parsonage throughout, and aided in putting water on the parsonage property.

It meets every alternate Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of some one of the members.

Any woman may become a member by paying an admission fee of 25 cents, and 5 cents every two weeks as regular dues. The attention of the women connected with the church is called to this society, and an invitation extended to all who feel interested in the church to identify themselves with it.

Our Church Papers.

We have a family of eight ADVOCATES:

The Christian Advocate being the main and general church organ, published at New York City, Dr. James M. Buckley, editor.

The Northern Christian Advocate, published at Syracuse, N. Y., Dr. Orris H. Warren, editor.

✓ The Pittsburg Christian Advocate, published at Pittsburg, Dr. Charles W. Smith, editor.

The Western Christian Advocate, published at Cincinnati, Dr. Jeremiah H. Bayliss, editor.

The North-Western Christian Advocate, published at Chicago, Dr. Arthur Edwards, editor.

The Central Christian Advocate, published at St. Louis, Dr. B. St. James Fry, editor.

The California Christian Advocate, published at San Francisco, Dr. Benjamin F. Crary, editor.

The South-Western Christian Advocate, published at New Orleans, Dr. A. E. Albert, editor.

The price of the New York Advocate is $2.50 per year, and the price of the others, $2.

The Pittsburg and the Western are our home papers, and one or both of them ought to be in every Methodist family. For less than three-fourths of a cent per day, every Methodist family can have a clean, pure family newspaper, and at the same time keep informed on the general work of the church.

If you are already a subscriber for one of these papers, be sure and renew your subscription at the proper time; and if you are not, select one or more, by all means one, and have a Methodist paper in your home next year.

This Society has, ever since its organization, employed and paid for the organist, besides being actively engaged in other departments of Church work. In the past year, besides raising money for other enterprises, it has provided for the painting of the parsonage.

Any young lady can become a member of this Society who makes application and receives the requisite number of votes, by paying an admission fee, and ten cents per month as the regular dues. It affords an opportunity for organized Christian work which every young lady connected with the church should avail herself of.

The Society meets every alternate Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Pastor's study at the parsonage.
